

And now my closing comments as always: work hard, never give up, maintain your sense of humor, you'll always need that, use your time wisely, always do your very best, have a good, positive attitude, have confidence in yourself and your abilities, be honest with yourselves and others, respect yourself and others, always be in control of your attitude, actions, and behaviors, think before you act and think before you react, be nice and kind to each other, follow through on your commitments and responsibilities, use good judgment, make good decisions and good choices, stay healthy, please be careful out there, and, as always, and most importantly, please come back to school safely on Monday and every day.

Thank you for listening, have a great day, have a great weekend, love to you all, and, of course, keep smiling.

Lawrence H. Cohen